

Vocational Training

We offer vocational training courses in all aspects of general construction, including a Contractor's License Preparation Course, Warehousing, Retail, and a Commercial Drivers Training Program. Once these courses are completed, the participant will receive a certificate of completion documenting the training they have completed.

Ranch Facility

We now offer placement at our twelve hundred acre working ranch in Shasta County. The rural country setting creates an atmosphere conducive to a change of thought that allows individuals to focus on the reality of their lives. With this new found perspective, we then focus on prioritizing short and long term goals while establishing clear recovery objectives.

Vocational training classes include courses in agriculture and livestock taught on-site by Shasta College. The participants have the ability to achieve a certification in animal husbandry and general agricultural studies. Entry-level construction courses in welding, plumbing, and carpentry are offered as well. All of these factors contribute to why we have one of the highest success rates in long-term recovery in the State of California.

JERICHO PROJECT

Jericho Project is a training program for men that provides services to chemically dependent criminal offenders. Jericho Project's state license, certification and reputation makes us a sentencing alternative for men who find their current situation unacceptable.

Education

Jericho Project provides a complete basic educational course. We have partnered with 5 Keys, an accredited charter school, to provide all necessary classes for our clients to obtain their high school diploma or GED.

Physical Training

We have a fully equipped, state-of-the-art fitness center with more equipment than most commercial gyms. All members are encouraged to pursue their physical development through structured routines that are led by senior members who have obtained their Physical Trainers License. MMA courses are offered to interested men who are excelling in the program.

Groups and Meetings

Jericho Project staff facilitates topic-orientated group sessions that reflect the life issues of those involved. Some of the issues we address are as follows: breaking denial, acceptance of responsibility, motivation for change, decisional balance, values clarification, and much more. We are constantly updating our group discussions to remain current and topical.

Mind, Body and Spirit

Jericho Project's treatment plan will include training in Mind, Body, and Spirit. Our suggestion to clients is to completely dedicate themselves to their personal development. A properly motivated individual will discover that he can accomplish everything necessary for living a positive and productive life.
